"Being among the 800 companies and receiving recognition for our business performance is a huge source of pride, as well as visible and official proof of our business success," explains Francesco Santella, Activa's administrator - "Our technology is unique in the world and applies the principles of green chemistry, which is radically different from traditional processes, producing additives for sustainable and biodegradable asphalts. We are a small Italian company that drives the economy and we contribute, thanks to our dynamism, to provide new impulses to the Calabrian production system, which is crucial for the competitive advantage of the entire country."
